ETHEL:

Spring Gardens C. E. CONVENTION

NOT LIMITED TO THE ENDEAVORERS

Members of All Young People's Societies
are Invited

The Union Executive committee of the local Christian Endeavor Union, which meets in Dixon Saturday and Sunday, at the Christian church, we extend a cordial invitation to the Young People's Societies and Unions of Dixon and community, that are not members of the Illinois C. E. Union, to attend such sessions of the Convention as do not interfere with their own church meetings. The program features of Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon will be found especially interesting, and of profit to all young people and those who are concerned about young people's attitude toward Christ and the church.

"In response to inquiries, we announce that plates at the Endeavor banquet Saturday night, at the Christian church, are not exclusively for convention delegates; that is, young people from Dixon may attend outside the thirteen registered delegates from Dixon societies, without paying the registration fee, but merely the plate charge. But names should be handed to Miss Bertha Hanes, registration secretary, at once, since only forty seats are available, the rest being reserved for the delegates."

"WHITE WAY" BRIGHTEST
New York—Flashing 25,000,000 candlepower of light against the sky each night, New York's "Great White Way" is literally "the brightest spot on earth." It was revealed in the report of an electric sign survey here recently.

Contributions for This Page Welcomed

Contributions to the society column are desired by the Telegraph, and all persons leaving town or having friends to visit them are requested to telephone the society editor at phone No. 5. Accounts of parties, dances, marriages and announcements of engagements also are desired. If items are mailed to the office they must bear the signature and address of the sender, not for publication, but as evidence of good faith. Write plainly, on one side of the page only.

For society editor, call 5, Telegraph. As a rule, items which are held over for several days before reaching this office will not be used, for the news is only news at the time it occurs.

Bridge Club Was Entertained

The "Four Square" Bridge Club was entertained Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Niles Palmer, with Mrs. Leonard Lang and Mrs. L. Craig assisting in a progressive dinner, which was followed by bridge. Mrs. Frank Robinson won ladies' high score and Walter Spindler was high among the men. Mrs. Spindler was awarded the consolation prize. The evening was a most enjoyable one.

35 BOYS ENLIST IN TOASTMASTER CHICKEN CLUBS

Will Get Settings of Eggs
This Evening or Saturday

More than 35 boys have signed contracts with an equal number of the members of the Toastmasters' Club in the Chicken Club project which is being sponsored by the club. J. N. Weiss, chairman of the committee, stated last evening that this is far beyond the expectations of his committee and he also stated that there are still a number of boys who expect to apply. A number of applications have been received from girls but for this first year the club has decided to confine the project to boys. Only eggs from the very best breeds are being given to the boys, who have the choice of selecting from four breeds: White Leghorns, Rhode Island Reds, White Wyandottes and Barred Rocks.

The idea of this chicken club is to encourage better poultry among the boys of this community, both for laying stock and table use. A copy of the contract is being sent to the boy who has signed it and a similar copy to the Toastmaster who is assisting that particular boy. Each Toastmaster pledged himself last night to visit his adopted boy and inspect his flock at least twice during the summer and already club members are vying with each other with high handed claims that their boy is going to carry away the prizes at the Toastmasters' chicken fair to be held during next November.

The eggs for the boys are being delivered to the Y. M. C. A. today and the boys from the country or city will call any time this afternoon or tomorrow for their settings.

First Hike of Season Starts Tomorrow Morn

Tomorrow at 9:30 the boys will leave the Association building on the first hike of the season. Several boys have already signified their intention of going on this first hike and exploring the mysterious island in Rock River. The hike to be taken up tomorrow will be in cooking and in learning how to take care of oneself in the open.

Any boy who has not yet signed up is asked to be present at the "Y" a few minutes before 9:30 tomorrow morning so that he can get his name in.

Toastmasters' Turned Out Fine for Meeting

Last evening the attendance at the Toastmasters' Club climbed pretty close to the 50 mark, and for the second time since the attendance contest has been started, Colonel Vogel, with his team, took the lead with a majority of four points only. Colonel Vogel announced that his team henceforth shall be known as the "Goal Diggers" and with that name he felt that they will be more than a match for the "Kant Wallopuses."

Following the lesson, which was in charge of Dr. C. E. Smith and C. A. Buchner, the business of the meeting was taken up, at which time Mr. J. Gannon's application was dealt with and he was unanimously voted into membership. The initiation of Mr. Gannon and Dr. Hanks, another new member, will take place at next week's meeting.

Postmaster Moyer was Speaker at Hi-Y Club

Yesterday noon at the Hi-Y Club, J. E. Moyer, Postmaster, addressed the club members on "The Civil Service." He pointed out to the boys that the most essential thing necessary for success is a good, sound physique and an education. The better one's education, the better success one would have in Civil Service. He urged the boys to keep themselves in the best physical condition possible, no matter if they intend to enter Civil Service work or any other work.

I. B. Potter was unanimously voted into membership as an honorary member of the club.

Editors to Have Ride Over "City Coming Back"

Murphysboro, Ill., April 23—(AP)—An automobile ride over Murphysboro, "the city that has come back" after the disastrous tornado a year ago, will be a feature of the annual meeting of the Southern Illinois Editorial Association which opened here today.

"Crime news and how it should be handled," was one of the topics scheduled for discussion.

Scouting in Lee and Ogle Counties Area

Boy Scout Troop No. 4 met on Wednesday night with Larry Tibbitts, Scoutmaster. Some of the boys have nearly completed their Tenderfoot tests and will be ready for their badges in another week. The Troop is only three weeks old and has twelve fellows in attendance. They are out after more boys and will have three full Patrols in a short time.

Boy Scout Troop No. 3 met last night with Elwin Bunnell, Scoutmaster. This troop and troop No. 4 are close rivals. The boys last night worked on their Tenderfoot tests and four are to receive their badges at the next meeting. A peppy meeting was held and the troop dismissed at 9 o'clock.

A Court of Honor will be held in Mt. Morris on the seventh of May. This will be a public court and everyone is invited.

A SCOUT FIRST AIDER

When his sister pushed her hand through the glass panel of the front door, severing an artery in her wrist, Scout Almon Danforth of Galesburg, was on hand to render first aid.

The brother and sister had returned from the theater. As the latter unlocked the front door of her home, the door stuck. She pushed against the panel and her hand slipped, breaking the panel. The ragged glass cut a deep gash in her wrist, going through the artery. Blood spurted about six feet from the wound, and the injured woman fainted.

The scout, recalling his training in first aid, drew from his pocket his handkerchief. Then getting a stick, he made a tourniquet. This he applied securely, checking the flow of blood.

BEAR LOADS UP

Great Falls, Mont.—A 300-pound bear, emerging from his long winter sleep near here, broke his fast by eating three sticks of dynamite. A road gang watched him at his feast. There was no shooting of bears all week.

Seven Negroes Lost Lives in Fire Today

Philadelphia, April 23—(AP)—Seven negroes lost their lives here today when fire swept through a four-story tenement. Six, including four children, were burned to death while a 45-year-old woman was killed when she jumped from a fourth-story window. The four children, their mother and a man tenant were trapped on the fourth floor by the flames, which spread swiftly through the structure. The blaze is believed to have been incendiary.

HOLLYHOCKS—

From "Just Folks," by Edgar A. Guest.
Old-fashioned flowers! I love them all! The morning-glories on the wall, The pansies in their patch of shade, The violets, stolen from a glade, The bleeding hearts and columbine, Have long been garden friends of mine; But memory every summer floods About the clump of hollyhocks.

But mother loved them years ago; Beside the fence they used to grow, And though the garden changed each year, And certain blooms would disappear To give their places in the ground To something new that mother found, Some pretty bloom or rosebush rare, The hollyhocks were always there.

It seems but yesterday to me She led me down the yard to see The first tall spikes, with bloom aflame And taught me to pronounce their name. And year by year I watched them grow, The first flowers I had come to know, And with my mother dear I'd yearn To see the hollyhocks return.

The garden of my boyhood days With hollyhocks was kept ablaze; In all my recollections they, In friendly columns nod and sway, And when today their blooms I see, Always the mother smiles at me; The mind's bright chambers, life unlocks Each summer with the hollyhocks.

Bible Class Met With Mrs. Dawson

The regular monthly meeting of the Bible class of the M. E. church was held Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Edward Dawson, on N. Jefferson ave. This meeting was postponed for the month of March. Meeting called to order by Mrs. Deutsch in the absence of the President, Mrs. Crombie. All joined in singing, "I love to tell the story." Scripture reading by Mrs. Oscar Cline, from the 21st psalm. Prayer by Mrs. Thompson. Secretary's report was read and approved. Mrs. Quick was then called upon and responded with a very interesting talk on Florida and the several different churches there. Quite a number of subjects were brought up and all were generally discussed by all and these talks were very interesting. A general social hour was held during which time the committee served a very tasty lunch. There were 27 present.

Charming Bridge Luncheon Yesterday

Mesdames P. J. Moersbaecher and Milo Stratton, who have been entertaining with a series of bridge lunches, yesterday charmingly entertained guests for eight tables at Mrs. Stratton's home. Spring blossoms in delicate shades of pink and lavender were the beautiful decorations. At bridge Mrs. Frank Gorham won the first favor; Mrs. James Palmer, the second; and Mrs. Clyde Walton the third.

Mrs. B. J. Kennedy, Mrs. Charles Kilday, Mrs. Frank Kelley, and Mrs. Bernard Foley, of Rochelle, were out-of-town guests in attendance at the luncheon.

IS CLERK MUNICIPAL COURT IN TURKEY—

Constantinople, April 23—(AP)—Nigular Hanoum, the first Turkish woman to demand the right to exercise judicial functions, is on her way to the bench. She has been appointed clerk of the municipal court of Constantinople. Six months in this capacity are required of a woman before she may be made a judge. Her salary will be $10 a month. She is a graduate of Stamboul Law School. Three other graduates have applied for similar appointments.

PALMYRA MUTUAL AID SOCIETY—

The Palmyra Mutual Aid Society will hold an all day meeting in the church Wednesday with a picnic dinner at noon. The topic for the meeting will be Household Linens. A good attendance is desired.

Menus for the Family

Breakfast—
Baked apples with cereal, thin cream, fish omelet, corn bread, maple syrup, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—
Tomatoes in rice border, radishes, whole wheat bread, jelly, milk, tea.

Dinner—
Pot roast of beef, brown gravy, mashed potatoes, buttered parsnips, stuffed celery, chocolate bread pudding, graham bread, milk, coffee.

A piece of beef cut from the round makes a delicious pot roast. If you have an iron kettle with a tight fitting iron cover no water need be used in the cooking. Seal the meat on all sides, then cover and cook over a low fire for several hours, depending of course on the size of the roast. The meat actually cooks in its own juice and is as tender as can be. The fish omelet uses any fish left over from the preceding dinner.

Fish Omelet
Five eggs, 12 teaspoon salt, few grains pepper, 5 tablespoons hot water, 1 tablespoon butter, 2 cups white sauce, 1 cup flaked cooked fish, parsley.

Separate yolks from whites of eggs. Add salt, pepper and hot water to yolks and beat with a Dover beater until thick and lemon colored. Beat whites of eggs until stiff and dry and fold into first mixture. Melt butter in a hot iron frying pan or omelet pan. Turn pan to thoroughly butter entire surface. Turn in prepared eggs, spread evenly and cook over a low fire. When well puffed out on middle grade of hot oven to cook and brown the top. When firm to the touch fold and turn onto a hot platter. Pour around fish reheated in white sauce. Garnish with parsley and serve.

CUSTOMERS OR DEFENDANTS.

Shall European nations be treated as customers or as defendants in actions at law from whom we are trying to collect debts? Secretary Mellon holds to the view that they should be looked upon as customers, which they are. Touching upon the matter of debt adjustments, he said in Philadelphia:

"I should rather have solvent customers in the future, which permit me to run a profitable business, than insist upon terms of settlement which will again force my customers into bankruptcy. A business man would prefer making $100 in his business than being repaid $5 of a debt. The farmer or the laboring man would rather have a market for our surplus in Europe than save a dollar in federal taxes."

The secretary of the treasury talks as a business man. What should the farmer say. His problem is his surplus. Nearly everything that has been said concerning amelioration of the agriculturist has pertained to that surplus. European demands would help up prices on the world market. What else do we produce?

Fifty-five percent of the world's iron ore.
Fifty-one percent of the world's pig iron.
Sixty-six percent of the world's steel.
Fifty-one percent of the world's copper.
Sixty-two percent of the world's petroleum.
Forty-three percent of the world's coal.
Fifty-two percent of the world's timber output.
Sixty-five percent of the world's naval stores.
Forty-two percent of the world's phosphate.
Eighty percent of the world's sulphur.
Sixty-three percent of the world's mica.
Sixty-two percent of the world's lead.
Sixty-four percent of the world's zinc.
Sixty percent of the world's tale and soapstone.
Fifty-five percent of the world's cotton.
Ninety-five percent of the world's automobiles.
The United States is the greatest market in the world, but with such tremendous production we must find markets abroad. We can not sell among bankrupts. The administration has pursued a wise policy in the matter of settlements. If it is not a wise policy, it has not yet been proven so by opponents.

BE YOUNG, CARRY ON!

Would you like to keep young? Then forget your birthdays and just keep working.

Chauncey Dewey will be 92 years old on April 23. The other day he gave the following as his views on working:

"I consider that my best and most important work was performed between the ages of 75 and 90. Most of the active men I knew who have died did so after they had quit working. It is much worse to rust away than to drop away."

Dewey thinks it unfortunate that supreme court justices in New York state have to retire when they are 70.

"Often they are at the height of their usefulness at that age," said Dewey. "Take the example of Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes of the United States supreme court. He is 85 and probably more active than any other justice on the supreme court bench, with the possible exception of Chief Justice Taft."

Dewey is right. It is in the looking forward, the having something to do on the morrow, the hopes and dreams of the future that we live best.

We don't need an army. Let our bootleggers sell the enemy.

Our big corn crop hurts most when the weather changes.

The height of politeness is to get off the street car and let a lady have your standing room.

Meeting expenses isn't half so difficult as dodging them.

President von Hindenburg must have a new line now. He is making a speaking tour of Germany.

Seems to be around election time in Spain. King over there picked up a laborer and drove him home.

Gen. Wu Pei-Fu is active in China. Doesn't matter, but he sounds like someone—er—expectorating.

The apricot is a native of China, and we think it should have shaved before coming to this country.

Be careful when you cross the street. Americans spend 14 billions a year on autos.

One thing wrong here is pedestrians are not made out of rubber.

But the United States isn't such a terrible place. There are more than 100,000 bicycles in Tokio.

What could be worse than having a neighbor who rides a motorcycle and plays a saxophone?

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

"Hello, there, old fellow!" said Mister Tingling in surprise.

"We shall go to Scooty Lizard's house next," said Mister Tingling to the fairy landlady, to the Twins.

"Where does he live?" asked Nick.

"Don't you know?" said Mister Tingling in surprise. "He lives over in the meadow under a big gray stone."

"Then he won't have to pay you any rent, will he?" said Nancy. "If he just lives under a stone."

"Why, of course he will," said Mister Tingling. "The stone is just his roof. When it cold he wiggle down into the ground ever so far to keep warm. Besides it's a nice stone, I guess, so it is! And if he didn't live there, most likely someone else would. Besides I—Oh! But here we are now, children. Right at Scooty's front door."

"His front door?" cried Nick. "Why it isn't big enough for a fly to crawl into. The big stone is lying flat on the ground."

Mister Tingling scratched his head.

"That's so," he nodded. "It does look pretty flat! And as I'm pretty round for a fairy, I don't believe I could get in. I'll just rap and have Scooty come out here."

So he went tap, tap, tap, with his knuckles on the big stone and before a frog could catch a fly, there was Scooty Lizard looking at them with his black beady eyes.

"Hello here, old fellow," said Mister Tingling in surprise. "You don't make any more noise when you walk than a bunny that comes out of a silk hat in a trick show. You must wear rubber shoes!"

Scooty smiled and blinked his black beady eyes. "I guess I'm getting pretty good," he said. "That's what Ma always tried to teach me. She said to be quick and quiet. All right."

"That's so," he nodded. "It does look pretty flat! And as I'm pretty round for a fairy, I don't believe I could get in. I'll just rap and have Scooty come out here."

COMPTON NEWS

Compton—Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Holden returned home last Friday evening after sojourning in Hillsboro, Texas for the winter. They returned through Oklahoma and Kansas.

By taking first in four of the events, Paw Paw high school won the annual Green River Valley Conference, literary and musical contest, held at the M. E. church, last Friday evening. A capacity crowd was present, to hear the talent of their respective high schools. With Muriel Yenerich placing first in the piano, Mary Dugosh first in oratorical, Donald Baker, first in extemporaneous speaking and John Runyon third in vocal, aggregated 21 points for Paw Paw high. Wymond Montavon won the piano, Maxine Holden second in the piano, and Wayne Bettner took second in declamation and extemporaneous speaking, giving Compton second place in the meet with 14 points. Lee Center earned third place by annexing 7 points and West Brooklyn by entering only one contestant drew third place honors in the piano.

M. F. Beemer of Paw Paw visited his daughter Mrs. Myrtle Risley last Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clement Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Archer motored to Ohio Station last Wednesday, where Mr. Johnson recently purchased a farm.

J. W. Banks was in Dixon last Monday on official business.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Holden of Aurora are spending this week here with Mrs. Sarah Swope.

Every Wednesday evening Boy Scouts meet in the church basement. The following scouts have completed their tests for the Tenderfoot requirements: Don Archer, Oswald Kutter, Wymond Montavon, Cliff C. Carnahan, Isadore Kaufman and Donald Carnahan.—L. A.

GOLF NOTES

Activity on the golf course is increasing at a rapid rate. The course is under the same management as last year and the prospects for a larger membership are excellent. A larger membership means a better course. In expectation of more members, some improvement has already been made. The greens have been rolled into the best shape possible and are already in use by the early season golfers. The club now possesses a club house. A porch has been built around three sides and will provide parking space for hot and weary golfers. The prediction has been made that this porch will be the coolest and, therefore, the most popular spot in town this summer. Inside the clubhouse, lockers have been built where one may leave his clubs, a sweater, or an old hat, if he wishes.

Improvements soon to be made include leveling all the tees, and the building of two new ones. Tee No. 8 and tee No. 1 are to be relocated. No. 1 is to be moved about 40 yards north to do away with danger of overdriving hole No. 1. A new fence is to be put in near the clubhouse. The

As soon as the weather is really settled, a tournament to officially open the season will be announced. Until that time, care should be observed as to play when the course is soft. Under dry weather conditions and with reasonable care in regard to tracks made, anyone who has paid his dues may play. On account of the time in playing for the cup last year, it will be played for again each month beginning in May. Those having won it once are Rev. Fricke, J. S. Archer and Fred Paine. These people will be so credited. The cup goes to the one winning it most often. In course will be a little longer but the improved greens will more than offset this. Many long puts are going to fall in this year.

From the interest taken thus far and from comments heard about the firsides during the past months, the race for honors this year will be hotly contested. Of course all the golfers of last year intend to crack the record held by J. S. Archer. It is safe to assert that the record for this course in November will not be 35. Ralph Thompson, Leslie Carnahan, J. W. Banks, L. M. Corwin, and several others are liable to come in with a new record any day.

Memberships are being taken out steadily. The most distant town to be represented on the membership roll is Shabbona. Paw Paw is already well represented and will increase their representation. Earlville is expected back in full strength and Amboy, Steward and West Brooklyn should be represented. Local people who have never played have joined. Several ladies are expected to take up the game this summer. Although all nearby courses charge much higher fees, the fee here remains the same. The fee is ten dollars whether one joins now or in October. Membership entitles a man, his wife, their minor children and their house guests to play. Minors playing on the card of their parents are not entitled to bring guests without payment of green fees. If the member is unmarried he is entitled to extend the privileges of the club to the lady of his choice. Children under ten not accompanied by their parents are not wanted on account of the danger to them.

As soon as the weather is really settled, a tournament to officially open the season will be announced. Until that time, care should be observed as to play when the course is soft. Under dry weather conditions and with reasonable care in regard to tracks made, anyone who has paid his dues may play. These people will be so credited. The cup goes to the one winning it most often. In case of a tie a special match will decide who get it.

The club feels fortunate in securing L. G. Archer to act as green keeper for the coming year. He is experienced and if past performance is equalled the members may rest assured that the greens will be in excellent condition throughout the season.

Does It Hurt? Yes, But—

It's tough luck, of course, to fall and skin your knee right in the midst of an Easter Monday egg rolling. But when it happens on the lawn of the White House, and there's a nice doctor man at the Coolidge first aid station to repair the damage—well, then it doesn't hurt so bad. So little Miss Susie Leeruby probably is thinking.

Finds Bride-to-Be Is Half-Sister

Herbert Clark, actor, and Katherine Clark, secretary, never knew of each other until they met in New York. They planned to marry. Then Clark learned from his father, who lives in Pittsburgh, that Katherine was his half-sister. "I never thought it necessary to tell either of them I had been married twice," the father explained.

A Straight Tallow Diet

They make candles out of tallow in this country, but up in the north woods they figure tallow as an important foodstuff—for dogs, anyhow. Photo shows a prospector, musing north from Hudson, Ont., to the Red Lake gold fields, feeding one of his huskies with tallow. The dog is all for it, too.

ALL FLAGS NOW IN PLACE IN MAJORS BASEBALL PLANTS

But Fans in Some of Those Cities are Not So Happy

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
All the flags are now in place in the big league parks. The Pittsburgh Pirates, kings of 1925, appeared yesterday for the first time this year before the home folks and received their third straight licking, the Cardinals of St. Louis doing the damage.

In Brooklyn the Dodgers appeared officially for the first time although they played Philadelphia there on Sunday and suffered a beating from the New York Giants. On Wednesday six "openings" took place and all the home clubs were victorious.

The home run race appears to have started in earnest. Phil Todd of the Red Sox got two against the Yankees, his second one winning the game. Pinky Hargrave of the Browns made a brace against the White Sox although his team lost.

A member of the Yankees, broad shouldered with a powerful swing, now leads in the home run class. It is not Babe Ruth, but Pat Collins, catcher brought from the American Association. Pat has sent forth three balls for the bleacherites to carry home.

Cincinnati and Chicago waged the bitterest of yesterday's struggles, a 5-5 deadlock resulting after 11 innings.

Ten innings was necessary for decision at Pittsburgh. In the tenth Harry scored his second homer of the year, driving in Hornsby.

Dazzy Vance started for Brooklyn against the Giants, but was peppered from all sides. Two triples by Meusel had much to do with the Giants' 11 runs. Brooklyn made 4.

The Braves continued their slaughter of the Philadelphia innocents, 6-2. Dutch Reuther of Washington, ably supported by Goslin and Rice, turned back the Philadelphia Athletics, 8-2.

Heavy sticks swung at St. Louis where the White Sox overwhelmed the Browns 11-7. Harris of the White Sox had two doubles and a triple.

The Yanks and Red Sox staked a slugfest match which was ended in favor of Boston, 9-8.

A new X-ray machine, in which the photographic plate is exposed only when the heart is quiet between beats, and which has made possible clearer pictures of lung conditions, has been developed at the University

Galton, who classified fingerprints to aid in identifying criminals, figured that exact duplication of prints would occur only once in 64 billion cases.

THE STORY BEGINS TOWARD THE END OF THE REIGN OF KING RICHARD THE FIRST. THE SCENES ARE LAID IN BEAUTIFUL WOOD-ED VALLEYS, NEIGHBORING THE TOWNS OF SHEFFIELD AND DORCHESTER, IN ENGLAND. HERE FLOURISHED BANDS OF GALLANT OUTLAWS, OF WHOM DEEDS MUCH HAS BEEN WRITTEN, AMONG THEM THE FAMOUS ROBIN HOOD.

GURTH, THE SWINEHERD, HAD SPOKE AGAINST THE NORMANS BEFORE WAM-BA, THE JESTER, "DOO," SAID GURTH, "THOU WOULDST BETRAY ME AFTER HAVING LED ME OUT TO SPEAK SO." BUT HEARING APPROACHING HORSES, THEY CEASED ARGUMENT. "PERHAPS THEY ARE COME WITH A MESSAGE FROM FAIRYLAND," BANTERED WAMBA. "FOOL," SPOKE GURTH, "LET US HOME ERE THE TEMPEST OVERTAKES US." AND WAMBA GRASPED A QUARTERSTAFF AND HELPED HIS COMPANION TO DRIVE HOME HIS SWINE.

THE CAVALCADE SOON OVERTOOK THEM. NUMBER-ING TEN IN ALL, THE FOREMOST TWO RIDERS SEEMED PERSONS OF IMPORTANCE. ONE WORE THE DRESS OF A CISTERCIAN MONK AND THE OTHER WORE THE REGALIA OF A KNIGHT TEMPLAR. THE OTHERS WERE ATTENDANTS, TWO OF WHOM SEEMED TO BE OF TURKISH DESCENT.

APPROACHING WAMBA AND GURTH. THE MONK SPOKE THUS, "MY CHILDREN, BE THERE A MAN IN THE NEIGHBORHOOD WHO WILL GIVE TWO OF GOD'S HUM-BLE SERVANTS AND THEIR TRAIN A NIGHT'S LODGING?" (CONTINUED TOMORROW.)

BOXER'S REFUSAL TO 'THROW' BOUT MURDER CAUSE?

Such Charge is Now Made in Death of Andre Anderson

Chicago, April 23—(AP)—Andre Anderson, heavyweight boxer, shot and killed March 31, was slain because he refused to "throw" his bout with Wayne "Big" Munn, police have been informed.

No testimony in support of this theory was given at the coroner's inquest however, and police of Chicago and Cicero, suburb, where the shooting took place, have been asked to reopen their investigation. Leo Mongovern is under indictment for the shooting but has not been arrested. Mongovern and Anderson, whose right name was Fred Boesenellers, spent several hours together in a Cicero roadhouse before Mongovern flashed his revolver, inquest witnesses testified. The coroner's jury decided Mongovern fired without excuse although several witnesses claimed Anderson fired first from a small, compass-like device concealed in the palm of his hand. Witnesses said the two men faced each other when Mongovern fired, but the coroner's physician reported that the bullet entered Anderson's back.

Findlay Collins of the Oklahoma Agricultural & Mechanical College won the Canadian amateur welterweight wrestling championship by defeating L. Kaupenien of British Columbia in two straight falls in the finals of the Canadian amateur wrestling meet, Earl McGready of Regina, won the heavyweight title.

The 17th annual Drake University relay meet opens at 2 o'clock today with the crack of the first gun in the hands of starter J. L. Griffith. Nearly 3,000 university, high school and college athletes from 191 institutions in every section of the country will participate in the meet, which will conclude tomorrow.

More than 3,000 athletes from all sections of the country and a dozen from Canada are at Philadelphia today for the relay carnival of University of Pennsylvania. There were 97 events on the program for today and tomorrow.

The entry list for the Central A. A. U. annual indoor track and field championships at Chicago tonight includes a number of stars, despite the attraction of the Drake and Pennsylvania meets. Among the athletes who will compete tonight are Hal Osborn, Loren Murchison and Ray Dodge. They will wear the Illinois A. C. colors.

Sidelights

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Maurice Shannon, former Louisville shortstop, broke in as a pinch hitter against the Reds in the ninth and got a double which sent in the Cub's tying run and forced the contest into extra frames.

"Goose" Goslin of the Senators is getting his eye on the ball again, cracking out three hits against the Athletics to help put across yesterday's victory.

Babe Pinnell, Cincinnati Reds third baseman, who has a ball player's antipathy for benches, forgot his aversion long enough to share a seat with Judge Francis Borrelli in a police court. The judge used to be a pitcher on the University of Michigan team. Then Pinnell went to Cuba park and smashed out a couple of hits, one of which was a double.

Vic Keen, former Cub pitcher, is doing great work since he was traded to the Cardinals. After the Pirates hoisted their pennant emblematic of the world title, Vic thrilled a crowd of 35,000 with some high class twirling.

Bill Killifer, former manager of the Cubs, is proving a big help to Manager Hornsby of the Cardinals. In his capacity as coach "Reindeer" is bringing the pitchers around in fine shape.

Jack Scott, former Kansas City star, showed the Cincinnati Reds some speed when he ran for Hartnett in the ninth scoring the tying counter and forcing the game into extra innings. He was on first when Shannon doubled down the third base line. He started with the crack of the bat and was around the bases in a jiffy.

HELP YOURSELF TO HEALTH

She needed more than beauty-parlor beauty

WHAT a forlorn figure she is... haunting the beauty parlors... eternally brooding... wondering, worrying. Where had her beauty gone? Her glorious complexion?

There are millions of women in the world today who need much more than beauty-parlor beauty—who need only to correct that great affliction—constipation. What a blessing it is that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN brings sure, safe, permanent relief from this vicious disease.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN brings sure relief because it is 100% bran. As it journeys through the body its fiber remains unchanged. Doctors call it a bulk food.

If eaten regularly, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to bring permanent relief from constipation or your grocer refunds the purchase price. In chronic cases, eat ALL-BRAN with every meal. Its delightful nutty flavor makes it good as a cereal. Serve with milk or cream alone or with fresh or preserved fruit; sprinkle over other cereals or cook with hot cereals; use in soups, or in the recipes given on every package.

Insist on Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Only ALL-BRAN brings sure results. Kellogg's is the original ALL-BRAN. At all grocers. Served in leading hotels and restaurants.

often play an inning or two in the rain and then damp, cold and chilled to the bone, catch trains, with result that next day they show up at the ball park so crippled with rheumatism, lameness and stiff joints that they can hardly walk. An ordinary liniment would never fix them up quickly, but the liniment we use does the trick, declares Mike Martin, general trainer of the Washington Baseball Club.

FANS KNOW MIKE.

So many people with rheumatism, lame backs, neuritis and neuralgia have wanted this liniment which we use at the ball park that bottles are mailed all over the country and now it can be obtained at the White Cross Drug Store, and all well stocked drug stores in small bottles for a few cents. Just ask for Mike Martin's Liniment. It is guaranteed to be the fastest, speedlest liniment made and will bring complete relief to user or money refunded. Folder enclosed with each bottle tells how to use this liniment. If people out of town cannot get Mike Martin's Liniment they should send a dollar for large family size bottle to Mike Martin, Trainer, Washington Ball Club, Washington, D. C. It is a wonderful liniment. No man or woman with aches or pains should do without it. Adv.

HAVE THEY ENERGY

to run and race... back and forth... in and out... here and there... all day long?

Give them ample amounts of GOOD LUCK... a pure, tasteful energy food... in every meal

EXERCISE is the natural thing with children, and is one sign of normal good health. All healthy children are active... bubbling over with life and energy. Parents should view with concern any relaxation from the normal standard of healthy activity.

Correct diet has much to do with healthy activity. The properly fed child is active.

Include plenty of fat food in the diet, for this is the natural energy food that supplies vim and vitality.

Jelke GOOD LUCK Margarine is the best kind of energy food. Tasteful, easily digested, nutritious, this blended fat supplies an important food element in a form easily assimilated by little bodies.

Watch your children carefully to see that they are naturally and normally active. Plan their diet to include GOOD LUCK. Serve as a spread for bread both at regular meals and lunches. Be sure this part of their menu is well represented. Then healthy energy naturally follows.

Good Thoughts for Good People

The clearer realization of God as the loving Father of all His children must underlie any true manifestation of the brotherhood of man. To begin by seeing one's true self as the image and likeness of God, the reflection of spiritual idea of divine Mind, shows the nothingness of anything unlike good.

The Christian Science Monitor.

All things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them.

Christ Jesus.

A Christian is the gentlest of men; but then he is a man.

C. H. Spurgeon.

If we love one another, nothing, in truth, can harm us, whatever mischances may happen.

Longfellow.

With malice toward none, with charity for all.

Abraham Lincoln.

Charity never faileth. For now we see through a glass, darkly; but then face to face; now I know in part; but then shall I know even as also I am known. And now abideth faith, hope, charity, these three; but the greatest of these is charity.

Paul.

New York—The British recognize a good thing when its merits are proved. Sir Charles Higham says that newspaper advertising in the U. S. stands head and shoulders above every other medium for public announcement. In two years, as an agent, he spent $400,000 advertising ten in American newspapers and his client's sales increased by 6,500 tons.

New York—Anthony LaRocca, who was a newsboy ten years ago, is now building a subway, having a $5,000,000 contract. He is 28 years old.

London—Sir Park Goff, M. P., who in 55 and has been a best man 18 times, is a bachelor because marriage is a lottery and lotteries are forbidden by law. He and 37 other unmarried colleagues of the House celebrated their freedom by a dinner. One course comprised apples contributed "with compliments of Eve and the serpent."

New York—A floating nursery is bound for Hamburg. The Cleveland has 31 babies aboard.

San Francisco—Thousands of Church Gypsies, scattered throughout the nation, are mourning the death of King Michael I, who was buried here by his subjects at brilliant ceremonies symbolic of nomad traditions. His son, Anthony, will become king after the prescribed year of mourning.

Why Girls Go Back Home

CATHARINE BRODY

Copyright 1926 by Warner Bros. Pictures Inc.

"Why Girls Go Back Home" with Patsy Ruth Miller is a Warner production from this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Brooding a breach of promise suit, Clifford Dudley, latest stage sheik, "tours the sticks," and is bored "till the sticks" are a remarkably pretty girl, Marie Downey, in a small town audience with her sweetheart, John. Clifford broods at the footlights. John warms with Marie. Stranded in Winesville for two days, Clifford assumes himself by continuing the flirtation. Plagued by John's snub, Marie seriously gives her interest in Clifford and because he kisses her she innocently thinks they have become engaged.

CHAPTER II—(Continued)

"Oh, no, you mustn't do that!" began Clifford roughly, then stopped to think. He continued with more ease. "Listen, my dear, my contract prohibits my marrying on the road. Once I'm in New York, and it's finished, I'll send for you. Do you see, my dear? But if you tell your father, or anyone, they'll tell the manager, and then where will I be—and you?"

"Oh, I see," gasped Marie. "How mean! I—I won't tell, of course. But you mean it? You'll send for me? You love me?"

"Oh, more than the moon and stars, my dear," Clifford assured her nervously. They were getting into Main Street. He gently released her clutching arm.

"Listen, my dear," he said softly. "Don't you think it would be better if I walked back to the hotel alone—your father might be suspicious."

"I—I guess so." She brightened and looked with trust in his face. "We'll have tonight, anyway, and all day tomorrow won't we—to talk about it? And you're not sorry about it?"

"I couldn't bear to stay without you," explained Marie childlike.

"You're stranded in this town now, are you? You do love me, don't you?"

"Sure!"

"Oh, sure," sighed Clifford wistfully. He might have known. They were all the same, in chorus and country.

Miss Marie Downey and Mr. Clifford Dudley, the New York actor, who had been noticed by all Main Street, were in good standing, taking a walk together in the morning came back some time later by separate ways. Miss Downey cut through some of the residential side streets, though carefully avoiding the house of her friend, Dora, to whom she felt she could not bear not to tell—every thing. Mr. Clifford Dudley walked glumly back by his lone, thinking. "Almighty. 'What have I let myself in for now.' Do I have to have that hanging on my neck in this blank town?"

Whereat Mr. Clifford Dudley swore profusely, and Main Street-ers wondered whether he was learning a new part—or what?

CHAPTER III

Turning alone, with few of the wrong words of his vocabulary left unsaid, into the hotel, Clifford was encompassed in an arc of irritation described by the manager.

"And where the devil's you been? Scouting for you every where. The company? You ordered back to New York. Epidemic of hoof an' mouth disease or sumptin', and there's no use sticking around. You gotta whole hour to pack and say farewell to that new sweetie you managed to pick up."

Clifford replied in kind. But he was so relieved that he left the manager flabbergasted by his unwanted gentleness. At the desk he found a wire from his personal manager, too. That broke the breach of promise case had been settled as predicted. Decidedly, Clifford thought, he was lucky. A few more days, even a few more hours in this town, and there was no telling what new breach of promise case would be on his hands. And this kid, drat her, though she was cute, was only seventeen. Wisely, to the end that there should be no danger of a hitch, Clifford secluded himself in his room. Half an hour passed, forty minutes. Clifford was beginning to pack when a timid rascal that he had hoped to avoid sounded on his door. He made no answer.

"It's—it's—Marie, Clifford," in a light whisper, and then louder and with more assurance, "I have the coffee that you ordered, Mr. Dudley."

"Oh, come in," called Clifford frantically.

She came in. "I only have a minute, now. What is it? What is it now?" Marie set the tray of coffee, which she had brought up, sure enough, on the table. She stood near the door, twisting her hands, her eyes filled with vague tears. To herself she was a figure in a tragedy.

"I heard you're going, Clifford."

"Well?"

Marie's words came in a storm from her heart.

"When you love me so much, you said so. How can you go—without me? Oh, Clifford, let me tell father."

Clifford played with a wild desire to shout "For the love of Mike, you poor sap, beat it and close the door behind you!" His caution stopped him. It told him that there would be such a cloudburst, such possible thunder and lightning of rage from the hotel keeper, such kidding from the company, as he could not stand, especially when all this could be avoided by a little well oiled "stringing along."

"Now, listen, dear," he explained placatively. "I've told you how it is. When I get to New York I'll send for you. I'll write to you the minute I get on the train, in fact. And we'll plan. Now, you can't stay here. Your father wouldn't like it. There's a good girl."

He patted her on the back and wondered why her eyes, looking guilelessly into his, grew so tearful and ruminative. She was about to speak, when Clifford glanced at his watch. A quarter of.

"You must go," said Clifford, with determination. She slipped out without a word.

"That's that," breathed Clifford, and attacked his packing, cursing the road where valets were unknown.

Theatrical folk, notoriously indifferent to the time of rehearsals and engagements, cannot afford to be dilatory about trains. A minute before the New York express pulled out from Winesville the manager counted heads in the Pullman and found the number correct.

The train gave a snort, a whistle, a preparatory bound. The manager thought of a cigar. The character actor made his way to the smoking car in search of a possible game of poker. The women were taking off their hats, patting their bobs, opening their magazines with little yawns, apprehensive of the boring journey ahead.

Clifford, spreading his well shined shoes on the seat across, opened a copy of Theatre and began to study a picture of himself, an occupation which could engross him for minutes at a time. Another bound, a deep belch of rage at new activity from the long and lary train, and they were on their way.

For a minute longer, perhaps, Clifford, all unconscious of light footsteps up the aisle, and looks and surprised giggles from the women, sat absorbed in his picture. A small voice murmured questioningly:

"Clifford?"

He started up, all his contentment erased. And there before him was a demure vision in the best blue silk jumper dress, with a tiny blue felt hat to match pulled down over brown bobbed hair, brown eyes trembling into his, and the face of Marie, dimpling and flushing, half naughty, half frightened.

"I couldn't bear to stay without you," explained Marie childlike. She clasped her hands in front of her, more childishly than ever.

"Oh, Clifford," she begged anxiously. "It's all right, isn't it? You don't mind, do you? I left a note for father and sneaked out. I—I didn't have much time to tell you, did I? It just came over me. And I knew if I found a way you'd want me with you. You do, don't you?"

"Oh, my God!" cried Clifford desperately.

The company watched them from afar, cynically and a bit disapprovingly too. The character woman nudged Sally Short:

"Look! She's pretty young, too."

The manager frowned. He did not like these small town ladies tagging after theatrical troupes.

MUSSOLINI'S COIFFURE

London—Women from country towns come all the way to London once a week to have their shingle set right, but if reports from Paris are correct, the women have nothing on the men for vanity. Mussolini sends for a French woman hairdresser, it is said, to come all the way to Rome so he can have his head shaved just as he thinks it should be.

THESE WOMEN

CREATED BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Early in the story HARRY MORTON (middle-aged, handsome, rich, unmarried and the guardian of AUDREY MORTON) has thrown out of his house in Rochester a shabby stranger whom he called "SMITH." Smith claimed to be Audrey's stepfather. To get rid of him, Morton sent him to a job in South America.

At the end of the last installment Audrey has just received a letter from Smith.

Audrey is wildly in love with her guardian. So is NONA, a New York stage girl. Morton, to turn Audrey's mind from him, has let her see him with Nona and other women, and also has thrust JOHN PARRISH, his secretary, into her company. In addition to his Rochester home, he maintains an apartment in New York.

Audrey slaps Parrish when he says Morton is not the proper man to be her guardian.

To learn how other women fascinate Morton, Audrey has just started exercises in a gymnasium, where girls' muscles are stretched for stage dancing. Discussion of this career is interrupted by receipt of the letter from "Smith."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY (The names and situations in this story are fictitious.)

CHAPTER XXIII

"I'd never mistake that permanent smile," commented Morton.

Audrey looked at him with a gasp of interest. There was a note in his voice that she never had heard before.

"You hate him!" she exclaimed.

Morton turned the letter over and inspected the signature.

"P. H. Smith," he read aloud, without answering her.

The handwriting was singularly clear and beautiful—the writing that is peculiar to architects, and engineers, and accountants, and others who make precision their life's work.

Morton turned to the beginning, and read, half aloud:

"I expect to mail this at the first post we touch. There is something that I know of deep interest to you. The knowledge is worth money to you—and to me. I am willing to sell my knowledge. You have access to your guardian's funds. He is wealthy. Upon receipt of five thousand dollars from you, in the form of any negotiable paper, I will give you information that I am quite sure you never have had. What do you know of yourself, and of your guardian? Do you know who your mother was? Do you know who I am? Maybe you will not care about this last item—until you have received word from me, in return for your five thousand. Then you will be much interested. Knowing something of women, I am quite sure you will show the letter to Morton. Know something of him, I am sure he will give me no explanation. Again drawing upon my knowledge of women, I am fairly assured that sooner or later you will transmit to me the sum I have mentioned. Curiosity in this case is legitimate. From time to time I shall inquire at the office of the International Express Co., in Buenos Aires, for a letter (with enclosure) from you, addressed to the undersigned."

Audrey took the letter from Morton's hand and looked at it again.

"Isn't he horrible?" she cried. "Does he really know all those things?"

"You hate him!" she said again.

"I have every reason to hate him," Morton said solemnly. "There was a time when I would gladly have strangled him to death, if it had not been for you—for the effect it would have upon you."

The girl's eyes had something of worship in them. "You always have been thinking of me, haven't you?"

"Always!" he answered. He moved nearer her. "Do you wish to send him the money? He can tell you what he says he can tell."

"I'll never do it." Her voice rang with sincerity. "I would be cheating you if I did it."

The man sat down, and with his elbows upon the desk, rested his chin in his hands. After a long silence he spoke again.

"I have been trying to shield you."

She moved nearer to him.

Leaning over, she almost whispered: "Daddy, is that man my real father?"

He was startled. With a quick gesture he seized her arm and pressed it with his fingers until she winced.

"No!" he shouted. "No! Praise God, you didn't enter the world under THAT handicap!"

He relaxed his grasp, and with a little sigh she passed her hand over his cheek.

"Ever since I first saw him I've wondered that—a little. And I hated him so—I hated his eyes and the way he looked at me and at you."

Looking into the distance, and tapping on the table with his fingers, Morton spoke, monotonously, as of a subject which he dreaded.

"Smith is not his name, of course," he said. "It is a good enough name for his present purposes. And he is a bad man. A very evil man, who has caused much needless agony to people who never harmed him."

He thought a moment before he

He thought a moment before he went on. "There is a kink in the minds of men, sometimes, that makes them a danger to everyone with whom they come in contact. He is like that."

Swinging around in his chair, he looked at Audrey, his lips twitching as if he were about to weep. She put her arm around his head and drew it to her bosom, crooning over him.

He went on speaking, in the same dead, colorless tone. "He did a great wrong to you, sweetheart. You were too young to know about it—you were a little baby. I hope you never WILL know about it. I've tried to keep it from you. I always shall try."

"There, there!" She smoothed his cheek. "Don't worry about him any more."

Morton shook his head. "I am not worrying about him. Whenever I desire I can put him where he can harm no one else. But Audrey—if I do that I'll hurt you."

She held him closer to her.

"I guess he knows that," she said. "This is Harry Morton," he said, smiling, with a wise little nod. "That's why he didn't care if you saw his letter."

"It hasn't varied a hair's breadth," he commented to himself, as he folded the documents and put them away. The new letter from Smith was carefully folded with them.

"This is Harry Morton speaking," he said to the girl who answered. "Let me talk to Abe."

He waited until a man's voice gave a gruff "Hello."

"This is Harry Morton," he said. The voice at the other end promptly became cordial. "Are you putting on any new revues this spring for the jazz restaurants?... I thought you do me a favor. I'll drop in and see you in half an hour."

OREGON NEWS

Oregon—This has been good English week in the Oregon high school and has been introduced in a very unique way to the students by the English instructor, Miss Irene Mantz. Monday morning there was a "pop" meeting held in the assembly previous to a basketball tournament on English and the line up was as follows: Centers, had English and good English; right forward, I haven't, I have not; left forward, I ain't, I am not; right guard, He don't, He doesn't; left guard, you wasn't, you weren't.

In the game Tuesday morning bad English was injured and on Wednesday morning an operation was necessary which was done in the way of fainting by the sophomores with nurses and doctors chosen from the student body and "slang" and "double negatives" were the diagnosis. The result of the operations was fatal and on Friday morning the funeral will be held in which the juniors will lead the parade and they will bury bad English. Many attractive posters were made by Miss Walte's art classes which aided a great deal to make Good English week a success. A different poster was placed in the library each day of the week.

Mrs. Florence Garrett of Denver, Colo., and Mrs. Ethel Werger of Omaha, Neb., were week end visitors of Mrs. Daisy Harshman.

Mrs. Carl Nicholas of Mt. Morris who has been a patient in the Oregon hospital returned to her home Monday.

Dr. H. W. Wade left Wednesday for North Dakota to spend two weeks looking after land interests.

Mrs. Otto Garard is spending the week in Mendota with relatives.

Mrs. J. H. Cartwright leaves Thursday for Toledo, Ohio, to spend a week with Mr. and Mrs. Horace Cortwright.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Cline, Saturday morning, April 17, 1926.

Mr. and Mrs. Keler King and family motored to Rock Falls Sunday.

Mrs. Earl Ballinger left Tuesday for Sullivan, Ill., to visit her parents.

The freshman class of the Oregon high school is having a class party Friday evening in the Masonic hall.

Mrs. Adolph Sonntag who has been spending the winter in Dubuque, Ia., has returned to Oregon.

The Rebekah lodge will hold a school of instruction and election of officers Thursday, April 22 at the Odd Fellows hall. The meeting will be open at 10 a. m. with lunch served at noon by the local members and for supper they will attend the missionary tea given in the M. E. church parlors.

LOQUACIOUS BARBER: And what would you like on your hair, sir?

WEARY CUSTOMER: My hat, just as soon as you can manage it.—London Opinion.

Practical Test Made

of River Barge Line

St. Louis, Mo., April 22—(AP)—A practical test to determine whether the upper Mississippi river can be used to carry freight at less than rail rates and at a profit began today with departure from St. Louis of an experimental tow for the Twin Cities. The trip will require approximately nine days.

The nine hundred horsepower tow-boat Wynoke is pushing five barges loaded with ballast to a draught of 4 feet, representing 1200 tons of freight. The normal channel of the upper river during the navigation season is four feet and it is estimated a minimum of 1200 tons must be carried on each trip to make a regular line pay.

Aboard the tow are Brig. Gen. T. Q. Asburn, chairman of the Inland Water Ways Corporation and a party including United States Engineers in charge of the river channel, terminal engineers and naval architects. From their observations it will be determined what type of tow boats and barges are necessary for uninterrupted navigation of the upper river and where terminals are needed and what type.
